

KEREN TZARFATY

Keren Tzarfaty, Ph.D, MFT is a trainer and clinical investigator for MAPS (Multidisciplinary Association for Psychedelic Studies) in the MDMA PTSD FDA-approved clinical trial, examining the impact of MDMA-assisted psychotherapy on severe PTSD patients. She is the co-founder and CEO of MAPS Israel and leads psychedelic assisted studies.

Keren is the co-founder of the Hakomi Institute of Israel, a Hakomi Trainer and one of the founders of the new MA program at Haifa University: Integrative psychotherapy: Body, Mind, spirit.

She holds an MA in Somatic Psychology and a Ph.D. in East-West Psychology, both from the California Institute of Integral Studies in San Francisco.

Keren specializes in integrating mindfulness-based psychodynamic psychotherapy with somatic psychotherapy, attachment psychotherapy, trauma psychology and transpersonal psychology. Her approach is grounded in traditional western psychologies as well as inspired by Eastern and Shamanic spiritual traditions.
